

Spring Inspirations: A DayQuest

Help us to be the always hopeful gardeners of the Spirit who know that without darkness nothing comes to birth as without light nothing flowers.

~May Sarton

Saturday, May 12th, 2012, Dawn to 4 pm

Fee: $75

3 CEU's available LMFT & LCSW (provider # 2738); $10 fee

With two experienced EarthWays Wilderness Quest Guides join a small circle of heart-felt community in a day for spring inspiration and renewal in nature. We will gather at dawn to learn about the ancient practice of questing and to confirm our intentions for the day. With simple ceremony you will then have several hours alone to experience your unique connection with a beautiful Sonoma County natural area. There will be plenty of time to wander, create, or sit quietly in contemplation. At the end of the day we will meet again as a group, tell our stories and your guides will reflect on your experience with the land. Expect to be surprised at the depth of guidance you will receive from this day on the earth!

Vanessa Eyan, MA, is passionate about connecting people of all ages to the beauty and healing reflections of the natural world. She has been an environmental educator, co-founder of Earth Camp and The Center for Nature Based Mentoring, and a trained guide in wilderness rites of passage. 707.888.3239 or vanessa@earthways.info

Susan Kistin, MFT, is a circle keeper & spirited designer of ceremony. As a guide in rites of passage, her joy is to connect people with the wondrous mysteries of wild nature/natural self. Her psychotherapy approach is a blend of traditional, body-oriented and eco-therapy. 707.823.1319 or susan@earthways.info
